

UGAGRI

Livestock & Agribusiness | Uganda, East Africa

Building productive, well-managed livestock enterprises.

Who We Are

UGAGRI is a Uganda-based agribusiness company and the umbrella for a growing portfolio of livestock and ranching projects, including Butiti Ranch. We develop and manage ranchland, raise cattle to modern standards of animal health and husbandry, and build the farm infrastructure that makes large-scale livestock production reliable.

What We Do

Ranch Development Land clearing, bush control and pasture improvement. Phase 1 of Butiti Ranch covers roughly 460 acres.	Cattle Production Managed herds, feedlot finishing and dedicated bull paddocks, with weighing and handling facilities on site.
Animal Health Structured tick-control dipping programme with veterinary partners, plus routine handling and monitoring.	Farm Infrastructure Water troughs, pump houses, perimeter and paddock fencing, and cattle-handling facilities built for durability.

Why Uganda, Why Now

Livestock is central to Uganda's economy, and the country's cattle corridor offers favourable climate, grazing land and a large domestic and regional market. According to the Uganda Bureau of Statistics (UBOS), national beef demand is expected to rise by more than 150% between 2020 and 2040, creating strong long-term opportunity for well-run, professionally managed producers.

Our Approach

- Practical and systems-driven: proper infrastructure, animal-health discipline and clear operating routines.
- Phased growth: projects developed in stages so each phase is productive before the next begins.
- Local roots, international standards: managed by a Ugandan team with an eye on quality and traceability.

Partner With Us

We welcome conversations with investors, livestock buyers, breeders, technology and equipment suppliers, and development partners interested in Uganda's livestock sector.
